Series Of Fatal Blasts Are Up For Investigation

Close Check On Explosions By FBI Officials

Star Farmer

LaRoy Duvall (above) of Lamar has been named Star Farmer for Missouri in a Future Farmers of America contest sponsored by The Weekly Kansas City Star.

By the Associated Press
A series of blasts in explosives plants—one of which was engaged in defense manufacture—drew the attention of investigators today in an attempt to determine whether they were connected with possible sabotage efforts.

A three-way inquiry was begun into the explosion in which eight were killed and 26 injured at the plant of the United Railway Signal Company plant, Woodbridge, N. J., yesterday. Although there apparently were no indications of sabotage, authorities had not altogether ruled out this possibility. The company makes railroad signal torpedoes and other safety devices.

Three were killed in the plant of the Trojan Power Company, Allentown, Pa., which had army and navy contracts for explosives. Those killed were in a building where detonators were made.

Another three died in the Burton Powder Works of the American Cyanamid Corporation at Edinburg, Pa., in an explosion of 1,000 pounds of dynamite.

FBI men were conducting investigations at each plant.

All three explosions occurred two months to a day after the mysterious blasts which killed 51 Sept. 12 in the plant of the Hercules Powder company at Kenil, N. J.

On the heels of the powder plant explosions came reports of other blasts and violent incidents, at least one occurring under mysterious circumstances.

Storage Tank Explodes

A 10,000-gallon storage tank exploded at the Canton Refining Company, Canton, O., about 1,000 gallons of fuel oil burned fiercely and threatened four other tanks for a time. The blast's force blew the top off the tank and knocked down several employees, but none was injured. It appeared to be accidental.

In Oklahoma, an explosion damaged units of the Phillips Petroleum Co. 1 oil well under circumstances which the plant foreman said were mysterious. No one was working at the time.

Two men were killed and two others injured when a shipbuilding crane at San Francisco's western Pipe and Steel Company capsize. The incident was reported to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Fire believed of incendiary origin broke out in a locker room of the Todd dry docks in Seattle shortly after the plant officials had begun an investigation of a series of incidents in which machinery had been damaged with emery dust at the dockyard. The fire caused little damage.

Commenting on the chain of explosive plant blasts, Rep. Martin Dies (D-Tex.), chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, declared he was dispatching investigators to "every scene of trouble." He said "the acts of sabotage in the past 24 hours are only a beginning," and added that he would ask a congressional appropriation to conduct a nationwide "close-in" on all subversive elements.

To Offer Briefs In Pension Case

The case of Peter English, 1002 North Osage avenue, versus the State Social Security Commission, set for a hearing in the circuit court this morning, was called, and by agreement the attorneys in the case will submit briefs. They will probably be submitted this week and the case then given consideration by the court.

English a Negro man, drew an old age pension of $11 a month, for about a year. It was then withdrawn, and after a hearing in Sedalia, February 16, 1939, before Elmore G. Crowe of Jefferson City as referee, the commission ruled "The claimant has income, resources, support and maintenance to provide a reasonable subsistence compatible with decency and health, and is not found to be in need. Therefore claimant does not come within the purview of the statute and application for old age assistance is denied."

The commission based its action on the fact that English's wife drew a $40 a month allowance, after the death of a son who was in the World War, and because there were other assets in the family.

English appealed the case to the circuit court.

Crawford and Harlan represented the plaintiff and Aubrey R. Hammett, assistant attorney general, was in Sedalia today representing the Social Security Commission.

British Cripple Italian Ships In Bombings

Damage Ones In Main Naval Base At Taranto

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(P)—British naval bombers in a smashing attack on Italy's main naval base at Taranto, have seriously crippled two battleships and probably severely damaged a third, with the result that only half the Italian navy's six capital ships remain effective, the British admiralty announced today.

In addition, two cruisers and two fleet auxiliaries were damaged, an admiralty communique said.

"The royal navy has struck a crippling blow at the Italian fleet," the communique said. The navy airman, it stated, attacked the "main units" of the Italian force "snuggling behind their shore defenses in their main base at Taranto," in the instep of the Italian boot.

One battleship of the brand new Littorio class of 35,000 tons, was left "badly down by the bows," with her forecable under water and a heavy list as a result of bomb hits, the admiralty said.

Another battleship, of the 23,622-ton Conte di Cavour class, was beached, with her stern up and her turret under water, the communique said, while "it appears probable" a second battleship of that class was "severely damaged."

"In the inner harbor two cruisers are listed to starboard and are surrounded by oil fuel. Two fleet auxiliaries are trying with their sterns under water."

"The total strength of the Italian battle fleet was six battleships two of the 'Littorio' class which have just been put into service, and four of the recently reconstructed 'Cavour' class," the communique said. "As the result of this determined and highly successful attack, probably only three Italian battleships now remain effective."

The attack, which was carried out the night of Nov. 11-12, was admitted by the Italians yesterday to have resulted in the serial damage of one warship.

The raid was one of a series which have been directed at Italy's southern naval bases and embarkation points for the rushing of reinforcements to the battlefield in Greece.

(An Italian communique today said new raids had been carried out by the British against Taranto, Brindisi and Bari, but that)

Gillette Proposes Steps To Curb All 'Smear Literature'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(P)—Voluminous exhibits of "smear literature" from the presidential election campaign prompted Senator Gillette (D-Ia) to advance 2 recommendations today for legislative curbs on such vote-seeking appeals.

The "smear collection accumulated rapidly after Gillette urged the public and political organizations to send in all campaign material of an objectionable or malign nature.

The senator told reporters he would ask the special senate campaign investigating committee to consider these remedial proposals:

Heavy penalties for printing and circulating false statements in a national campaign.

A requirement that printers place their names and addresses on all literature produced for a national campaign.

Gillette coupled his recommendations with the proviso that any precautionary legislation be carefully drafted as not to "infringe upon our tradition for freedom of the press, speech and assembly."

As chairman of the special committee designated by the senate to police the 1940 elections, Gillette indicated his group probably would propose "corrective legislation" for the Hatch act provisions limiting expenditures in behalf of a presidential candidate to $3,000,000 in an election year.

There have been assertions that the total outlays of each major party surpassed that limit, even though Democratic and Republican national committees did not exceed the legal mark. The spending of auxiliary campaign organizations was held responsible for sending gross expenditures through the Hatch act "ceiling."

Discussing "smear literature," Gillette said he was receiving a "very large number of samples of scurrilous and vicious campaign materials used in the national campaign in all parts of the country."

Exhibits, he said, varied from small cards carrying obscenities to handsomely illustrated pamphlets and brochures.

Fire Damages Lumbermen Business House Here Thursday

Old Booster Hall On Main Street Has Chief Loss

Fire believed to have started from sparks from a defective flue, did more than $800 damage to the old Missouri Pacific Booster hall at 105 1/2-107 1/2 West Main street, about 10:05 o'clock this morning. The loss is covered by insurance.

Mrs. J. Isgur is the owner of the building.

Only slight water damage resulted to merchandise of the Temple Stephens grocery store at 105 West Main street. Water which seeped through the ceiling and down the east wall of the store building dripped on some of the groceries, but the greater part of the merchandise was moved before water reached the first floor.

The Western Auto Supply Co., had no damage. Water which went through the ceiling was caught in a bucket, not reaching any of the auto supplies.

Protection Provided

No sooner had the firemen laid out a line of hose which they fought the flames with than firemen had large canvas covers lying on the floor where the water came through the second story ceiling, with other firemen busy with large mops soaking up water not falling on the canvases.

The fire started between the ceiling and roof in the southeast corner of the building and spread along the east wall, and burning through the roof in several small places.

Mrs. Isgur only recently redecorated the building, and had a new ceiling put in over the large meeting hall, as well as doing considerable repair work on the roof of the building.

Brave Seamen Save Most Of British Convoy

Canadian Heroes Fight Off Raider Before Ship Sank

BULLETIN

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(P)—Six more ships of the British convoy which was attacked by a surface raider in the north Atlantic on Nov. 5 have reached port safely, it was announced tonight.

Twenty-nine of 38 ships in convoy had previously been reported safe. Some of the ships reached Canada.

The announcement left three ships still unaccounted for. (The Germans, in describing the attack, had claimed all of the vessels were sunk.)

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, Nov. 13.—(P)—Sixty-five seamen, most of them wounded, were Canada's heroes today as they fought off a German raider, the armed merchant cruiser Jervis Bay which saved at least 29 ships of a convoy of 38 before sinking, guns still roaring, in mid-Atlantic battle with a powerful German raider.

They were brought into port late yesterday by a Swedish freighter, one of the convoy, whose captain, Sven Olander, went back after dark the night of Nov. 5 because "they did so well for us that I did not like to leave."

The identity of the freighter and the number of missing crew members of the 18-year-old, 14,164-ton Australian liner converted into a lightly-armed convoy guardship were kept a military secret. Also, the identity of the raider was unknown, but some survivors thought possibly he was a 10,000-ton pocket battleship, the Admiral Scheer or the Luetzow.

Laid Smoke Screen

Survivors of the fight told how the Jervis Bay headed without hesitation into the "hopeless" fight, laid a smoke screen under which the convoy scattered, and plowed through a storm of shells straight for the raider until she was sunk by the latter.

Captain E. S. Fegen remained in command "with one arm almost shot away," even though the fore part of the bridge was blown from under him. He went down with the blazing ship.

A British admiralty communique credited the saving of three-

Two U. S. Citizens To Trial In Rome

ROME, Nov. 13.—(P)—Two U. S. citizens, Miss Grace Gunther and George Ehret, went on trial before a special tribunal today on charges of violating Italy's foreign exchange laws.

Ehret, formerly of New York City, and Miss Gunther have long been residents of Florence. Arrested several months ago, they were accused of irregularly exchanging dollars for Italian lire through special facilities granted banks at that time to pay rates higher than those officially fixed.

Symphony Opens Season With Exceptionally Fine Program

It was a fortunate idea when a symphonic orchestra for Sedalia was conceived and Tuesday night Abe Rosenthal, conductor, and the Sedalia Symphony orchestra in opening their sixth concert season at the Smith-Cotton high school auditorium, affirmed previous achievements and displayed to a warmly attentive audience an increased musical stature.

The guest soloist was Joseph Wilkins, tenor, a polished and versatile singer, who is head of the voice department of the University of Kansas, at Lawrence. His two groups added much to the success of the program.

Beethoven's Fifth Symphony was the outstanding orchestral number, and it was played with the dignity and richness which it deserves.

This noble symphony with its dominating theme of struggle-to-victory, is the most popular orchestral work of its length in the world.

Emotional Power

The first two movements, played at the Tuesday night concert, have an emotional power that the imagination. The andante was consummated with a beautiful moderato and pianissimo. In both movements Mr. Rosenthal's understanding control of the orchestra and his careful direction were noteworthy.

The second and third movements will be heard at a later concert. Scores for the Beethoven Fifth were obtained for the orchestra by Mrs. Lee Montgomery, a member of the board of directors.

The concert was opened with the overture to Offenbach's "Orpheus in der Unterwelt," played with restraint, but ably denoting the fantasy of the theme of the light opera.

Mr. Wilkins' voice showed the

U S Recognizes Comacho As Mexican Head

Wallace Chosen To Attend His Inaugural Dec. 1

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(P)—The United States formally recognized General Avila Camacho last night as president-elect of Mexico and designated Henry A. Wallace, vice president elect, to represent this country at the inauguration in Mexico City on December 1.

The state department's announcement that Wallace would go to the inaugural ceremonies was the first government expression on the disputed Mexican presidential election.

Ambassador Extraordinary

The announcement said: "The President has named the honorable Henry A. Wallace, vice president elect, as his special representative with the rank of ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary at the ceremonies of the inauguration of General Avila Camacho as President of Mexico, December 1, 1940."

The move was regarded in some quarters as an indication that Wallace might become a "traveling salesman" promoting the "good neighbor" policy in Latin America.

Propaganda, Pressure and Persuasion

Are you on a committee?
 If you aren't, you're an unusual American these days. For there are so many committees operating in the United States at the moment that it seems as though every person in the country must be a member of one or more. Committees, that is, trying to persuade the American people to do this or that in regard to the country's policies toward other nations.
 Most of them are putting out propaganda. Don't recoil. We got so gun shy of that word during the World War that it still has a disreputable odor to us.
 Propaganda, the source and purpose of which is known and open, is not propaganda in the disreputable sense the word has acquired. The arguments of both the National Democratic and Republican committees during the presidential campaign were propaganda in the literal sense of the word. But their source and purpose was known to everyone, and their regularly-issued material was not propaganda in the evil sense.

So with the deluge of material that is being issued on foreign policy. Much of it comes frankly from known groups who frankly advocate a certain course. It is propaganda in the sense that it aims at conviction leading to action, but it is not propaganda in the sinister sense.
 Here is a committee to "Defend America by Defending the Allies." With 700 local branches and scores of thousands of members this group begins to exercise real power in moulding public opinion.
 Here is a committee "For Non-Participation in Japanese Aggression."
 Here is an "America First Committee," directly opposed to the first group named.
 Here are committees to aid the Chinese, the Japanese, the French, the Poles, Scandinavian, and the people of almost every nationality of stricken Europe. Nearly all these committees are organized and run by native American citizens. They constitute a problem quite different from that which was attacked in forcing agents of foreign governments to register.

Yet they exercise their influence (and some are now becoming large enough to be real pressure groups) on our relations with other countries.

Democratic policies ought to be determined after hearing all the arguments. These groups are advancing the arguments on the basis of which we will decide. But it is likely that never before has so great a galaxy of pressure groups, committees and groups clamored for the American ear.

That ear wants to be more delicately tuned than ever before.

Alaska Grows

The sparse population of Alaska has become one of the American defense headaches. That vast territory has attracted so few settlers that many have feared that it would be a push-over for any invader.

Thus it is reassuring to see Alaska's population growing. Still pitifully small, it is now revealed as 71,911 as compared with 59,278 ten years ago. That is growth at the rate of 21.1 percent, a rate exceeded during the same period only by Florida and New Mexico.

The military population is now growing still faster, of course, and that always draws a certain amount of civilian population to supply the army posts, so still greater growth is definitely in sight. But it is still a pitifully small body of people to hold this vast territory on the direct "invasion airline" from Asia.

Looking Backward

Capt. Hamilton, a Mississippi river steamboatman, is here from Quincy, Ill., the guest of his brother, E. L. Hamilton.

Robert Fritz, of the Fulton Market restaurant, this afternoon received a letter from John Armbruster, a former Sedalian, who is now working at Dale's European hotel in Chicago. John writes that Dick English, another former Sedalian, also has a good position there.

Harry Yanow of Lincoln, Nebr., has accepted a position in J. Waldman's clothing store.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—Rumors that Wendell Willkie will be offered a cabinet post or chairmanship of the Defense Commission are just rumors and no more. Roosevelt has no intention of unifying along such lines.

After the 1936 campaign, the president and Alf Landon went out of their way to be friendly. The mellow Kansan called at the White House when he went to the capital in December for a Gridiron club dinner, and a year later Roosevelt appointed him a member of the U.S. delegation to the Pan-American conference in Lima. But with Willkie the situation is entirely different.

Roosevelt deeply dislikes and distrusts him—a feeling, incidentally, that is strongly reciprocated by Willkie.

Privately, the president believes that the G.O.P. standard bearer's campaign was motivated chiefly by personal malice and went far out of the bonds of legitimate political warring in deliberate misrepresentation and distortion.

On his side, Willkie feels just as hotly regarding Roosevelt. When Rev. John Carruthers, visiting pastor of the Convent First Presbyterian church, Washington, suggested making peace with Roosevelt, Willkie snapped, "I wouldn't think of it. You can't trust him. I refuse to have anything to do with him in any coalition cabinet."

NOTE: Even if Willkie would accept a job, Roosevelt has fought shy of creating a chairmanship of the Defense Commission. To all such suggestions he has replied that he was boss of the commission and intended to continue that way.

Merry-Go-Round

The Roosevelt campaign wagon came to rest only after some bitter inside circle carnage. Two of the president's closest advisers, Harry Hopkins and Tom Corcoran, are at sword's points. . . . Republicans are wondering whether there isn't something awfully significant about Tom Dewey's majority in up-state New York. It was more than 750,000 in 1938 while Willkie's up-state majority was only 94,000. This, coupled with the fact that Dewey did most of his campaigning for Willkie in the west—not in New York—makes some of the boys wonder whether the young district attorney wasn't just as glad to have Willkie lose. After all, Willkie's defeat leaves Dewey with a far better chance to take the Republican nomination—and election—in 1944. . . . Friends are kidding Henry Wallace about being disqualified for the job of vice-president because, unlike Jack Garner, he does not "strike a blow for liberty." After eight years in Washington, Wallace does not drink.

European Appeasement

The story of imminent European peace deals which floated around London, Berlin and Washington just before election was no myth. Inside fact was that some very, very tentative ideas had been discussed by Sir Samuel Hoare, British ambassador in Madrid, and a leader of the British appeasement group.

Since November 5, these ideas are dead. But the motives behind them are extremely important. Inasmuch as they may crop up again, here is their background.

Ever since Hitler's proposed invasion of England was frustrated last September, Nazi diplomats have sent out feelers to the effect that Germany now had almost the entire continent of Europe and might be satisfied to drop the war, leaving England to stick to its own islands.

This, of course, would be an excellent set-up for Germany. Economically, she now has some of the wealthiest areas of Europe under her thumb, especially with the penetration of Rumania. Her trading area, under the now rewritten map of Europe, is vast and wealthy. Hitler could well afford to sit tight for the time being and concentrate on the development of these new areas.

Such a peace, of course, meets no response from the great majority of the British people, nor the government, and absolutely none from Winston Churchill. However, it has been received favorably by the little group of "City" men (London's Wall Street) which encouraged the Nazi invasion of Czechoslovakia so they could get Czech factories, and who actually lent money to Hitler after Munich.
Wall Street and Willkie

This group sees British factories blasted, argues that it will take months to rebuild them, and that meanwhile British trade will lose out to the U.S.A. So this group has been encouraging the backstage peace feelers with Berlin, via Spain and Sweden.

Furthermore, all diplomatic reports indicate that had Willkie been elected, this group would have launched a strong drive for appeasement. This does not necessarily mean they would have had Willkie's blessing. But it does mean that Wall Street groups in the United States which think along exactly the same lines as London's "City" were all ready to co-operate in this drive and expected to get support from Willkie.

In fact, some of the wisest wise-acres in the diplomatic corps were cabling their governments just before November 5 that an appeasement peace was certain if Roosevelt were defeated.

Latin American governments, whose weather vane is the United States and who study us with a microscope, actually were getting ready to warm up to Hitler. But since November 5, the effect is just the opposite. Now the diplomats are writing it down as certain that the United States will give increasing help to the British and there will be no appeasement.

NOTE: However, help to the British will have to be on a much bigger scale than ever. For British shipping losses are mounting far higher than the censurs will let the press cables admit.

We've got to say where we stand in the world. About all we have in common now is our desire for comfort.—Herbert Agar, editor, Louisville Courier-Journal.

The election means unity with Canada and South America. It means a new balance of power in the world.—Tom Corcoran, administration adviser, announcing his retirement from public life.

 The general public, both employers and those seeking work, are urged to make use of the local employment office at all times. The service is operated on the principle of "matching jobs and men" and is a clearing house for both the employer and those seeking work. It is not a relief office, but is operated on the principle of referring prospective employees to prospective employers solely on ability to meet employer requirements.

A reception for the bridal couple will be held at 7819 Gannon avenue, that city, from 2 to 5 o'clock that afternoon.

The bridegroom-to-be is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Zoernig of St. Louis, formerly of Sedalia.

A party, for all members of the family, has been planned by the social committee of the country club for Saturday night. The party, a supper and game party, will begin at 6:30 o'clock.

On the following Saturday night, November 23, there will be a dance for members and their out of town guests.

Three hundred friends greeted Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wisdom, Sr., at their home in Lincoln Sunday, November 10, when they celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary, with a golden wedding tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Wisdom were married on November 12, 1890 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harvey, in Lincoln. Three of the guests who attended the wedding reception were guests in the home for this occasion. They were Mrs. Margaret Harvey Moore, of San Luis Obispo, Calif., sister of Mrs. Wisdom, Miss Grace Yancey of Windsor, and Mrs. Etta Jones Ferguson of Warrensburg.

The floral greetings from the friends made the home beautiful, being massed with yellow and orange chrysanthemums, gold and tulle roses, azaleas and carnations.

The guests were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Wisdom. They were served tea and shown to the rooms where the many lovely and beautiful gifts were displayed.

Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. C. O. Davis, Mrs. Leo A. Hare, Mrs. C. D. Brill, Mrs. Delphine Doyle, Mrs. Melinda Connell, Miss Grace Yancey, Mrs. John Kerstetter and Mrs. S. O. Brill.

On Monday evening the Embroidery club of which Mrs. Wisdom is a member entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Wisdom in the Methodist church dining room, with a dinner. The tables, placed in the shape of a U were tastefully decorated with cut flowers and lighted tapers.

About 45 persons were seated for the dinner, following which much merriment was afforded by looking at old photographs of the assembled guests. Old songs, such as "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet," "Auld Lang Syne," etc. were sung.

2. What should a woman do if a man offers her his hand?

3. Is it good manners to telephone your hostess the day after a party to tell her what a good time you had?

4. Is it always necessary to write a bread-and-butter note after a week-end visit?

What would you do if—

You have put off for so long writing a thank-you note for a birthday gift sent you by a friend that you are ashamed to write—

(a) Decide it would be better not to write at all than to write so late?

3. Yes. It is a gracious gesture.
4. Yes.
5. Try to write it the day after you return.

McCormick Is Most Valuable 1940 Player

Third Consecutive Cincinnati Player To Be Selected

BY JUDSON BAILEY
NEW YORK, Nov. 13—(P)—Frank McCormick, sturdy first baseman for the world champion Cincinnati Reds was the National League's most valuable player in 1940, a committee for the Baseball Writers' Association of America announced today.

The tall, good-looking youngster from New York, who joined the Reds three years ago and has played in each of their games since, didn't have his best season, but it was a good one, and vital to the Reds.

He hit .309 and drove in 127 runs, as compared with a 1939 batting average of .322 and 128 runs batted in.

Fourth In 1939

Last year, he was rated fourth in the annual balloting by 24 veteran baseball scribes, three from each National League city. This year he was first, getting 16 of the 24 votes for first place and 274 points, 69 more than Johnny Mize, slugging first sacker of the St. Louis Cardinals, who also was second in 1939.

The reason for the rise of McCormick in contradiction of the figures in the record books is easily apparent. Last year, the Reds captured the pennant on marvelous pitching, but this year their hurling was less effective, and they repeated on tight defensive play and the ability to punch across runs at the right time.

This was where McCormick figured—the best defensive first baseman in the league, second only to Mize in runs batted in, the leader in doubles and tied for the lead in total hits. He gave the Reds their pennant punch.

Third Red Player Chosen

McCormick was the third consecutive Cincinnati player to be voted the honor, which carries with it an award by the Sporting News. In 1938, catcher Ernie Lombardi led the league in batting and was named most valuable; last year, pitcher Bucky Walters led in victories and earned the most valuable designation with 303 points out of a possible 336.

One reason McCormick did not dominate the annual poll this year as Walters did last was the competition of his own teammates. No fewer than five of the Reds received votes. Five others were accorded honorable mention, and in the final compilation of points Walters rated third with 146 and Paul Derringer, fourth with 121.

Mize was the first choice of six of the committeemen, but Lombardi and Derringer each received one first place vote.

McCormick's votes were distributed as follows: 16 firsts, four seconds, one fourth, one fifth and one tenth.

Other Player Ratings

The balloting produced no particular surprises and ran the gamut of stars of the league's eight clubs. Corrupt Fred Fitzsimmons, Brooklyn's veteran knuckleballer, who led in percentage of victories with a record of 16 and 2, ranked fifth in the voting; Debs Garms of Pittsburgh, the somewhat disputed batting champion, tied for 13th. Dixie Walker, Brooklyn, was sixth; Harry Danning, New York, seventh; Stanley Hack, Chicago, eighth; Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati, ninth; Bill Werber, Cincinnati, tenth; John Cooney, Boston, eleventh; Dolph Camilli, Brooklyn, twelfth; Eddie Miller, Boston, and Garms, tied for thirteenth; Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh, fourteenth; Claude Passeau, Chicago, fifteenth.

Also rans finished in this order:

Joe Beggs, Cincinnati; Terry Moore, St. Louis; Elbie Fletcher, Pittsburgh; Bill Nicholson, Chicago; Kirby Higbe, Philadelphia, and Carvel Rowell, Boston, tied; Al Lopez, Pittsburgh; Maurice Van Robays, Pittsburgh; Truett Sewell, Pittsburgh; Harold Reese, Brooklyn, Max West, Boston, and Babe Young, New York, tied; Whitlow Wyatt, Brooklyn, and John Rizzo, Merrill May and Hugh Mulcahy, all Philadelphia, tied; Peter Martin, St. Louis, and Frank Gustine, Pittsburgh.

Tigers Working Hard For Columbia Game

Smith-Cotton's football players are working hard this week preparing for their final game of the season and the last Central Missouri Conference game to be played Friday night with the Kewpies of Hickman high school in Columbia. Some changes have been decided upon in the Tiger lineup by Coach Benson, who is not entirely satisfied with the work of some of the players.

Randall Scott, full back who has been shifted to the line at guard, his old position, will probably ride the bench at the opening of the game. Jack Graham whose appearance in past games and his work this week in practice no doubt will win for him a starting line position at full back.

Sam Switzer who was out of the Jefferson City game will be back and ready for Friday night, while Billy McClain will take over an

GOP Campaign Expenditures Will Not Reach $3,000,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(P)—Denying charges of Edward J. Flynn, National Democratic chairman, headquarters of the Republican National committee said that all expenditures made in the Willkie election campaign would fall short of $3,000,000.

In this figure, the Republican lumped expenditures by the national committee, which they figured roughly at $1,600,000, and the outlays of both the Willkie Democrats and the Associated Willkie clubs, in the period between July 1 and election day.

For the full year 1940, however, they readily acknowledged that the expenditures of the three organizations would total more than $3,000,000. The national committee, they added, had no control over or responsibility for the expenditures of either the Willkie Democrats or the Associated Willkie clubs.

The statements on spending were made after Flynn had said that both the Roosevelt and the Willkie campaigns cost in excess of $3,000,000, with the Republicans end position in place of Bud Michaels who is out temporarily because of an injury. Michaels, however, will probably get to see some action during the night.

There is plenty of defense work to be had between now and Fri-spending "much more than we did."

"I said before the election," he told reporters at a press conference, "and I now repeat, that tremendous sums were spent by the Republican party in every state in the union."

When he conceded that the outlays of the Democratic national committee and other pro-Roosevelt groups would run above $3,000,000, a reporter inquired:

"Isn't that a violation of the spirit of the Hatch Act?"

Unclear On Details

He replied that he did not know enough of the subject to go into its legal details, adding that it was unclear whether the Hatch Act's $3,000,000 limit applied to a single national committee or to all committees all over the country. Whether there had been a violation, he said, was for congressional committees to determine.

At Republican headquarters, however, officials flatly took the position that the limitation was applicable only to each individual committee and not to the aggregate spent on the campaign.

Hartnett Not Manage Cubs Coming Year

Wrigley States Contract Not Be Renewed For 1941

CHICAGO, Nov. 13—(P)—Philip K. Wrigley, president of the Chicago Cubs, said today that Gabby Hartnett's contract as manager of the team will not be renewed when it expires December, 31.

"We are announcing this decision now," said Wrigley, "as soon as we know it ourselves, both out of fairness to Hartnett and because we believe the fans expect and are entitled to know what's what about their ball club. The success or failure of the Cubs does not depend on any one person, but rather on getting the right combination, both on the team and throughout the entire organization.

"We are not blaming Hartnett—he has done everything he could, but we feel it is up to us to try and keep on trying to get the best possible combination of personnel to produce the best possible results: We may be wrong but at least we are trying."

"Several names are under consideration for the position of Cub manager in 1941. All the men we would like are under contract and their names cannot be discussed until we have made definite arrangements with them and their present employers."

Hartnett, veteran catcher of the Cubs, succeeded Charlie Grimm as manager during the 1938 season and led the team to the National League championship. The Cubs finished fourth in 1939 and fifth last season.

The announcement terminated

Hartnett's connection with the cubs, which began in 1922.

Gabby said: "was it a surprise?" He appeared with Wrigley shortly after the announcement was made and remarked "oh, well, it's one of those things. I have no plans. I'm going to try to stay in baseball, but I have no idea what I'll do."

Some Possibilities For All-American Gridiron Fame

Backfield Men Who Clicked In Recent Games

By Herb Barker
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(P)—Putting the finger on last week's outstanding backfield performers, bidding for all-America football recognition.

The lad who makes that dazzling Stanford offense click is the quarterback, Frankie Albert, a junior. In the crucial game with Washington Albert was a standout all the way and rated the orchids he got for the way he loosened up the Huskie's defense, found the weak spots and called the plays that meant the ball game. He is unusually gifted in feinting the opposition over on the wrong side on pass plays.

When Fullback Norm Standlee was hurt in the first quarter, Albert took over the kicking duty and averaged 40 yards, almost as good as Washington's Dean McAdams. Clark Shaughnessy says he has no coaching worries so long as Albert is running the team.

Jarring John Goes Strong
All America John Kimbrough of Texas A. M., whose fullback

post was endangered by Standlee's brilliant play, poured it on against Southern Methodist. Jarring John was his old unstoppable self against the Mustangs. Another 1939 all-America, Tommy Harmon of Michigan, was pretty well stopped on the ground by Minnesota's great defense, but he passed and kicked like a champion. He completed nine of 14 passes, including one for a touchdown, and booted at a 43.6-yard clip. Minnesota's leading ground gainer turned up in Bruce Smith, whose 80-yard touchdown run helped him average 7.5 yards in 15 tries.

Jimmy Nelson, Alabama junior, belongs in the forefront of backfield contenders. After last week's game, Tulane players said Jimmy was the best back they had faced all year, and the Green Wave has faced some good ones, including Charlie O'Rourke of Boston College, Dick McGowan and Lloyd Cheatham of Auburn, Len Eshmont and Steve Filipowicz of Iordham, Jim Lalanne of North Carolina and Ed Maness of Clemson.

Art Jones, Richmond's triple threat, was something of a one-man riot in the upset victory over North Carolina, passing for both Richmond touchdowns and adding the extra points that spelled triumph 14-13.

Christman To Fore
Any discussion about passes ought to include Paul Christman of Missouri and John Supulski of Manhattan. Christman completed 10 of 20 against Colorado, two of them for touchdowns, and scored Missouri's other touchdown himself. Supulski, who has completed 49 of 102 this season, completed seven in a row against Marquette to set up the winning touchdown in their wild and woolly 45-41 duel.

Once more, it was Junie Hovious and Merle Mapes for Mississippi in the rout of Holy Cross. It is doubtful whether any team in the land has two such talented backfield performers.

Among other backfield aces who attracted attention last week were: Martin, Oklahoma; Wilder and Darling, Iowa State; Pollom, Kansas; Francis, Nebraska; Quick of Kansas State; Brumley and Zander, Rice; Layden, Texas; Conatser, Texas A. & M.; Johnston and Mallouf, Southern Methodist; and Johnson, Mississippi State; Thibault and Hays, Tulane.

Additional Conservation Agents Needed

Applications Can Be Made For Exams To Be Held Soon

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., (Special) Nov. 13.—Missourians between the ages of 25 and 40 who would like the opportunity to qualify for eligibility as a Wildlife Conservation Agent, were invited today to make written application to the Protection Division of the Missouri Conservation Commission at Jefferson City.

The announcement was made by Asbury Roberts, Chief of the Protection Division, who pointed out that this is the first invitation of its kind since early in 1938, when the first group of Conservation Agents was selected. While an immediate increase in the staff is not contemplated, Roberts said, the Commission is pursuing its policy of employment exclusively on a merit basis, and in the event additional men are employed, they will be selected only from an eligibility list prepared as a result of competitive examinations.

Applications To Fill Out
Applicants will receive application forms to fill out, together with a printed statement setting forth the requirements and qualifications for the job. Some of the chief qualifications are:

The applicant must have been a resident of Missouri for not less than two years; he must be at least 25 years old and not more than 40, and he must be physically sound and free of physical defects. He must be not less than 70 inches and not more than 75 inches tall, and he should weigh not less than 160 and not more than 200 pounds.

Applications must be postmarked not later than midnight November 30, 1940.

Physical Requirements
Applicants who meet physical requirements and who can qualify from the standpoint of character and reputation will be eligible for written examinations which will be held in Jefferson City at a time and place to be designated by the Commission, Roberts explained. In addition to the written examination, each applicant will be given an oral interview.

Those who satisfactorily meet all requirements and who qualify in the examinations will then be placed on the Commission's eligibility list from which future Wildlife Conservation Agents will be chosen during a succeeding period of two years, or until the next examination is offered.

Appointments are made only on this eligibility list, Roberts emphasized, and are made with the understanding that they are for a probationary period of six months.

Hunters Must Have Their Guns Plugged

Agents of the Conservation Commission are issuing warnings to all hunters to watch their book of rules and regulations. Sunday, according to W. W. Marshall, agent for this district, more than forty hunters were checked in Pettis County. Of this number checked only two minor infractions of the law were found to be under violation.

Arrest warnings were issued to these two hunters. The violation was failure to have "plugs" in their automatic and repeating shot guns in accordance with the new ruling of the Conservation Commission.

Hunters must have their guns "plugged" so that not more than two shells can be in the magazine and one in the barrel at one time, otherwise putting a three-shell limit on all shotguns. The guns must be plugged for hunting of squirrels, rabbits, quail and ducks. Also a warning is issued to the hunters the squirrel season is now closed and anyone caught killing squirrels, are subject to arrests and a fine.

Indians Will Train In Cuba

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13.—(P)—Proving that appointment of long-faced Roger Peckinpaugh isn't the only new thing in the wigwam, the Cleveland Indians will invade Cuba to three spring training contests.

Cleveland fans can't recall the Indians ever playing outside the United States, but that isn't the only unusual thing to happen. The signing of Peckinpaugh yesterday assured the 48-year-old former shortstop of term No. 2 as the Indians' pilot.

The Indians will start gathering at their Fort Myers, Fla., spring training camp about Feb. 20, says Vice-President C. C. Slapnicka. This is about a week earlier than usual—and perhaps is indicative of front office determination for a pennant winner if getting the players into shape can do it.

They go to Cuba March 7 for a three-game series with the Brooklyn Dodgers, who have hopes for a pennant in their own National loop.

Death Toll From Storms And Cold Close To Hundred

A sister ship, the Mercury, with about 20 men, found shelter off North Manitou island in northern Lake Michigan. Several other vessels were aground but their crews apparently were in no grave danger.

The known death toll of 92 included 18 sailors, 27 duck hunters and 47 others. The hunters died in these states: Minnesota 12, Wisconsin 6, Iowa 4, Illinois 3, Windsor, Ont., 2.

The death toll by states including hunters but excluding lake boat victims was Minnesota 27, Illinois 11, Wisconsin 9, Iowa 8, Indiana 5, Michigan 4, Colorado 2, South Dakota 2, Ontario 2, and Oklahoma, Wyoming, New York and Kansas one each, also Wisconsin 9.

Abnormally cold weather prevailed generally throughout the central states and in the Rocky Mountain regions.

Many Minnesota towns remained isolated by snow. All schools in Minneapolis and St. Paul and many in other parts of the state were closed. Thousands of office workers in the Twin Cities spent their second night downtown last night.

Train service was uncertain and auto traffic was virtually paralyzed.

Losses To Livestock

Livestock dealers reported heavy losses in the middle west. Thousands of turkeys and sheep were frozen to death in Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska. Ranchers in the big Cimarron Valley of western Colorado feared heavy losses to 10,000 head of cattle and sheep isolated by snow. They described the storm as the worst in 20 years.

Communication facilities in Wisconsin, Nebraska and parts of Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota still were disrupted.

Sub-zero temperatures were reported in the west central and mountain states.

The Missouri river froze over yesterday at Bismarck, N. D., 16 days ahead of the average date. The mountain regions of Utah were covered by nearly three feet of new snow.

Duck hunters rescued in Minnesota and Wisconsin told harrowing stories of their experiences. Cherished guns, boats, decoys and other equipment were abandoned in the desperate fight for life. One Wisconsin nimrod died in his skiff while two other hunters sat in their boat 30 feet away powerless to help because their craft was frozen fast in the lake ice. The victim raised bare hands to the skies in supplication, then slumped forward.

One Wisconsin hunter was found frozen in the ice of big Muskego lake.

Seventeen Are Rescued

LUDINGTON, Mich., Nov. 13.—(P)—Seventeen sailors who clung to the broken hulk of the Canadian pulpwood carrier Novadoc for more than 24 hours on the Beach off Pentwater, Mich., were rescued today as fears rose that another vessel might be added to the list of those which foundered in Monday's disastrous Lake Michigan storm.

Already two big freighters and two fishing tugs are countered among the victims of the lake's worst storm in recent years, with a probable loss of at least 65 lives.

The 251-foot gasoline tanker New Haven Socony, with a crew of 16 men, was nearly 36 hours overdue at Kuskogon today.

An oar stamped with the name of the boat was picked up by beach patrols near Grand Haven, along with a quantity of other wreckage part of which was identified as being from the two lost fishing tugs.

Two of the crew were lost, presumably swept overboard by the waves 25 to 30 feet high that broke over the Novadoc. Their identity was not determined immediately, as coast guards gave first aid to the survivors, some of them cut and bruised and all suffering from hunger and exposure.

Bodies Wash Ashore

Sixteen bodies washed ashore along the beach here at Pentwater bore life-jacket identifications showing they had been crew members aboard the freighters William B. Davock and Anna C. Minch.

The 7,200-ton Davock carried a crew of 33, and the 4,200-ton grain carrier Minch a crew of 24. Both ships were believed to have been lost with all hands aboard.

Also given up for lost were the tugs Richard H. and the Indian carrying eight men out of South Haven, Mich.

The tanker Crudoil which had been unreported with a crew of 23 today was listed as safe in Sturgeon bay, at the western entrance to the Straits of Mackinac.

Both the coast guard cutter Ossipee and Cleveland Tankers, Inc., owners of the craft, reported her safety.

Coastguard headquarters reported the motorship Mercury, also owned by Cleveland Tankers, Inc., fleet was sheltered in the lee of North Manitou Island in northern Lake Michigan. The Mercury left East Chicago Monday for Detroit with a crew of about 20.

Ratner In Pickup On Absentee Votes

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 13.—(P)—Gov. Payne H. Ratner, Republican picked up strength today on the in-state absentee vote but his Democratic opponent, W. H. Burke, held onto a 2,519 vote margin in the race for governor.

Latest totals were: Burke 421,492; Ratner 418,973. The totals included the official counts from 103 of the 105 counties and the in-state absentee vote in 61 counties.

Brave Seamen Save Most Of British Convoy

fourths of the convoy, which the Germans reported completely destroyed, largely to the "very gallant action" of the Jervis Bay.

It said that despite "greatly inferior armament" the Jervis Bay "continued to engage the enemy after she had been severely hit and was burning furiously," and exploded after a two-hour fight.

Twenty-four ships in the convoy were reported to have reached ports, five others were reported safe and, the admiralty added, "It is possible that some of the ships still missing may be safe."

Among the vessels reported already in port were the liner Rangitiki and the freighter Cornish City, whose distress calls were heard in the United States the night of the attack as the convoy was steaming from Canada to England.

Tales of Heroism

"It was a sunny evening when we picked up the (German) ship on the port side at 4:50 o'clock," said one of the Jervis Bay officer survivors.

"She closed to get into range, and we closed, too, leaving the convoy. We got between the enemy ship and the convoy and dropped smoke floats to screen the merchant ships from the raider."

Captain Olander of the rescue freighter said the fight that followed was "glorious," and added in halting English: "I'll never forget it."

He fled, with the rest of the merchantmen, but turned back after dark to search the calmed seas for survivors of the escort ship.

Captain Olander said he thought he saw five merchant ships in the convoy struck by shells fired by the raider.

The survivors brought back tales of heroism which ranged from their captain's persistence at his post through severely wounded to an account of a seaman who, when the Jervis Bay's flag was shot away, climbed the rigging amid shellbursts and fastened a new ensign which still waved through smoke clouds as the ship took her last plunge.

"I think everybody aboard was proud as our ship turned to meet the enemy," the officer related. "Our captain knew just what we were going to get, but it didn't matter."

He said those aboard the Jervis Bay could not see what effect their fire had on the raider, but they kept shooting until they drifted helpless, their guns either smashed or unable to be brought to bear on the German ship.

Early hits set the Jervis Bay afire. A gaping hole was torn beneath her waterline, and she listed badly long before sinking.

She was burning fast and settling rapidly when the order "abandon ship" was given nearly two hours after the battle began, the officer said. He declared the Germans then began to shower the wreck and the escaping crew with shrapnel.

"I've got a scar on my back to show for it," he said. x x x shells were falling around the ship like raindrops. x x x almost everyone had some shrapnel wounds x x x.

Survivors said that while they rowed their lifeboat away the raiders took after units of the scattered convoy.

"She fired on the other ships until well into the night," the officer said, "throwing star shells for illumination."

Lull Comes On The Greek Front

ATHENS, Nov. 13.—(P)—The Greek high command reported today a stream of Italian wounded and prisoners was pouring back to concentration camps behind the Greek forces advancing through "pillaged" villages abandoned by retreating Fascist troops.

Generally, though, there was quiet along the entire front—a lull, described by neutral military observers as the end of the first phase of the war.

It was believed here that Gen. Ubaldino Soddu, undersecretary of war and newly appointed commander in chief of the Italian forces in Albania, was reorganizing his troops and devising a new plan of campaign. Supporting this view was the fact that there has been no Italian attack of any consequence in the past few days.

The Greeks took advantage of the lull to strengthen their lines. Snow and rain made conditions in the mountains difficult.

Last night 500 Italian prisoners arrived in Athens.

One company of Albanian troops officers and all, was said to have surrendered as Greek forces pressed forward in most places to their own frontier, which Italians crossed from Albania 17 days ago.

British Cripple Italian Ships In Bombings

bombs were dropped only at Bari.)

Deny Italian Reports

The British denied the Italian claims that six raiding planes were shot down in the Armistice night attack on Taranto, and said all but two of the bombers had returned.

The admiralty also said the British fleet was continuing to harass Italian communications in Africa, and had successfully bombarded Sidi Barrani, advanced Italian base in Egypt, on the night of Nov. 9-10 and exchanged fire with Italian shore batteries. The fleet received no damage or casualties, it was said.

In a submarine attack on an Italian convoy escorted by a destroyer, one 3,500-ton ship was sunk, and a second ship damaged and probably sunk, the admiralty said.

Informed sources said the Taranto attack would have a profound result in the naval struggle not only in the Mediterranean, but elsewhere, and would make it extremely difficult now for Premier Mussolini's battered fleet to break Britain's mastery.

Particularly will the damage inflicted on Il Duce's navy facilitate British aid to Greece in the Eastern Mediterranean, observers have pointed out.

The battleships of the 35,000-ton Littorio class are rated among the most powerful of the world.

The two cruisers reported damaged brought to three the Italian warships of this type reported put out of action by Britain since the start of the war.

The fast 5,069-ton cruiser Bartolomeo Colleoni was sunk in an early naval engagement in the Mediterranean.

The Taranto naval base is strongly guarded and fortified, but the admiralty said its claims of damage done had been verified by aerial photography.

Nazis Keep Up Raids

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(P)—German and Italian planes failed in two attempts to bomb London today, but broke through the defenses of the capital's outskirts on the third try. Other axis planes moved with greater success against towns in Wales and the midlands.

Rooftop watchers in the center of the city heard gunfire and exploding bombs during the third warning, but the all clear was soon sounded, indicating the raiders had been driven off again.

At least four of the attacking planes, one of them Italian, were reported shot down in air battles. The Italian plane, reports said, burst into flames over Sussex and its cargo of bombs exploded in midair.

Massed squadrons of British Hurricane and German Messerschmitt planes fought a running battle along the coast today after the Nazi raiders had dive bombed a southeast coast town. The raiders dived in single file, each dropping a single bomb. The Hurricanes intercepted the last group.

Sirens were wailing in the capital even as rescue workers doggedly burrowed into the debris of buildings, including a crowded theater hit during the series of long raids last night. The dead and wounded were uncounted.

The government today permitted publication of the fact that the Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields—the King's Parish church off Trafalgar Square—had been damaged in a recent raid. The Royal College of Surgeons and the Swedish church at Rotherhithe also were hit.

(St. Martin-in-the-Fields was erected in the early 18th century on the site of an earlier structure. The register of the old church, still preserved, contains an entry on the baptism of Francis Bacon. Nell Gwynne, mistress of King Charles II, and Farquhar, the Restoration comedy writer, are buried there. Eleven royal children are registered in the church at birth.)

"Hundreds" of raiders were reported by observers on the southeast coast to be heading toward London only a few hours after the all clear signal had sounded the end of an all-night alarm.

Recapture Gallabat

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(P)—British Indian and white troops captured, lost and recaptured Gallabat, in the Anglo-Egyptian-Sudan near the Ethiopian border, in a 4-day action which involved five battalions of Italian and Askari (native) troops, military circles reported today.

(British and Italian sources repeatedly have contradicted each other's claims to possession of Gallabat in the past few days.)

British artillery was reported by these military sources to be shelling now the Italian fortified camp at Metemma, near Gallabat, and they said shell dumps and gasoline depots there were in flames.

The air force is cooperating with the British troops, it was learned.

The Italians "suffered heavily" in the fighting, the sources said.

Forward point of one of several Italian thrusts at Egypt, Gallabat was first taken from the British last summer. It was described here as strategically important as a "jumping-off place" for Italian attacks on the Sudan. Protected by a small fort, it is the junction of many caravan routes.

The British were understood to have attacked Gallabat first in the early hours of November 6 and evicted an Italian battalion in an action lasting an hour and a quarter.

The Italian commander rushed up two supporting battalions from Metemma. Counter attacking, the Italians were repulsed, military authorities said, with a British loss of 27 officers and men.

The Italians, these sources declared, "suffered considerably" and "a number of prisoners were taken."

That day and the next, Italian bombers pounded the town, and British withdrew from their newly-won position, first destroying three damaged tanks and the Italian gasoline dump.

The Italians reentered Gallabat Nov. 8, taking up their positions among the smoking ruins. Reinforced by two additional battalions, they faced the British position just east of the village.

Advancing again on the morning of November 10, the British swept aside Italian pickets at dawn, military men here said, and breakfasted in the recaptured fort after a swift attack which encountered "surprisingly light Italian resistance."

Freighter Is Sunk

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(P)—The 4,900-ton British freighter Empire Wind has been bombed and sunk in the Atlantic, according to news reaching London today. All crew members were reported saved.

British Ship Bombed

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(P)—Mackay radio reported intercepting a British wireless message today saying the British steamship Empire Wind had been bombed at a point approximately 275 miles west of Foynes, Ireland.

This was the second English ship attacked by warplanes in that vicinity within the last 48 hours.

Early yesterday, the freighter Baltimore sent a distress signal saying she was sinking, her lifeboats smashed and swamped, with 17 men aboard, after being struck by German bombs.

Some Other Quotas

Following are some of the additional quotas for the inductions by local boards:

On the November 22 induction, 44 draftees will come from Jackson county, and one each from Clay and Platte counties.

November 25 induction: One from Barry, 12 from Greene, nine from Jasper and one from Vernon county.

On the November 27 induction all draftees will come from the city of St. Louis.

November 28, one from Audrain, Boone 4, Callaway 1, Randolph 5, Howard 2, Macon 1, Marion 5, Monroe and one several from St. Louis county.

November 29: Butler 5, Cape Girardeau 5, Cole 1, Cooper 2, and Saline 3.

Those inducted on November 22, 23, and 25 will report to Fort Leavenworth, Kas., to arrive not later than 8 a. m. of the day of their call. Those inducted on November 28 and 29 will report to Jefferson Barracks.

The quotas fixed the number of men to be drawn from each draft lottery. In areas where voluntary enlistment offers have been made, those men will be called into the service. Where no enlistment offers exist, however, the regular draft machinery will be used to obtain the quota.

Earp pointed out that in some remote areas there were no voluntary enlistment offers. Only in those will an actual draft be made.

He has shown special interest in the affairs of the neighboring republics and has been studying Spanish.

The United States has been expected for some time to recognize Camacho as president-elect, despite the claims of General Juan Almazan that he won the presidential election last summer. Almazan has been in this country since shortly after the election.

Discussing Defense

Wallace's forthcoming journey follows another move for closer relations with the Mexican government. President Roosevelt disclosed at his press conference last Friday that conversations had been in progress between the armed forces of the two countries on mutual defense questions.

Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, the Mexican ambassador, commented that he was "very gratified" at Wallace's appointment, adding that President Cardenas and President Elect Avila Camacho "will appreciate this friendly gesture of President Roosevelt."

He declared that Wallace "understands Latin America, and Mexico principally very well."

Donnell Picks Up More Votes

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 13.—(P)—Republican Forrest C. Donnell topped his Democratic opponent, Lawrence McDaniel, by 3,489 votes today in their gubernatorial contest that has been a "horse race" right down to the photofinish official count.

Official tabulation in all but St. Louis county gave: Donnell 911,389; McDaniel 907,909. St. Louis county was not expected to be reported official before Friday.

Donnell carried the county—his home—by more than 33,000 in complete, unofficial returns.

Most of the minor adjustments yesterday favored Donnell as the lagging counties sent in their windup reports.

Gives Up As Prosecutor

Williams Ready To Step Out Soon As Officially Notified

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 13.—(P)—The Missouri supreme court today refused to stay execution of its ousters of Jackson County Prosecutor W. W. Graves and Sheriff James L. Williams—automatically removing both men from office immediately.

The two officials, whose motions for rehearings on ouster suits brought by Attorney General Roy McKittick were overruled last Saturday, had asked the court to withhold the actual ouster so they could perfect appeals to the United States supreme court.

Attorney General Roy McKittick opposing the stay of execution, said no federal questions were involved in the ousters which grew out of the Kansas City "clean up" campaign of 1939.

Today's order by the supreme court does not prevent an appeal to the United States supreme court but it does mean that, under this court's order, both men must surrender office immediately. Their terms will expire at the end of the year.

F. E. Whitten, appointed by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark to succeed Graves, was sworn in yesterday as Jackson county prosecutor. At that time Graves said if the court refused his requested stay, he would step aside and turn his office over to Whitten without contest.

Appointment of a successor to Williams will be up to the Jackson county court.

Relinquishes Office

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12.—(P)—W. W. Graves relinquished his office as county prosecutor today without waiting to hear officially that the state supreme court had refused to delay executing an ouster order against him and Sheriff James L. Williams.

"Good luck, Colonel," he told Fred E. Whitten, appointed by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark to replace him.

Graves said he was not certain whether he would appeal to the United States supreme court, adding that the decision would be made upon the return of his attorney, John G. Madden, from Washington the last of the week.

Sheriff Williams said he would step out of office as soon as he was officially notified of the state court's action. However, he said he intended to take his fight to the United States supreme court.

Willkie Clubs To Remain Active

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(P)—The 10,000 associated Willkie clubs plan to continue their activities as the "loyal opposition" called for by Wendell L. Willkie in his radio address to the nation Monday night.

Oren Root Jr., head of the nationwide clubs, announced yesterday after a conference with the defeated Republican presidential candidate that the clubs would continue to function, although under a different name in deference to Willkie's wishes.

Root said a conference of club leaders would be held at national headquarters in New York sometime next month.

Declines On Stock Market Reduced

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Specialties gave a fairly good account of themselves in today's stock market but steel and a number of other industrial leaders wavered.

Declines, running to 2 points or so in the forenoon, were substantially reduced in most instances after midday as volume dwindled and scattered gains were to be seen at the close. Transfers were around 1,100,000 shares.

The majority of the rails, copper and utilities held to a narrow range. Brokers still maintained that setbacks were principally the result of a "correction" of the recent brisk recovery. Drying up of selling was interpreted as encouraging.

Favorable dividends and earnings figures helped such stocks as Pennsylvania Railroad, Phelps Dodge, Hiram Walker and a number of others.

Prominent on the offside the greater part of the day were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting, Westinghouse, International Harvester and Montgomery Ward.

With the World's Fair closed, we can recall today that we were in the world of tomorrow.

Fire Destroys B. R. Butler Car

The Oldsmobile sedan of B. R. Butler, manager of the Montgomery-Ward & Co., retail store in Sedalia, was destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. The car caught fire while Mr. Butler was enroute to Columbia from Jefferson City.

Riding with Mr. Butler was Reggie Gaylord, manager of the Montgomery-Ward store in Jefferson City, and they were on their way to Columbia to attend a meeting of store managers in central Missouri. When about nine miles from Columbia, Mr. Butler smelled smoke and thinking he might have dropped a spark on his overcoat, stopped the car. Getting out he discovered the back of it was on fire.

He opened the trunk on the rear in time to get a key budget plan and all of his fishing equipment out of the trunk. Within a few minutes the entire car was enveloped with flames. Mr. Butler and Mr. Gaylord attempted to beat out the flames in the rear of the car and when they reached close to the gasoline tank they gave up their fire-fighting effort. Mr. Butler and Mr. Gaylord were taken to Columbia by a passing motorist. He returned home this noon.

The United States is the outstanding sulphur producer in the world, but we still think our children shouldn't play with matches.

They've discontinued the famous six-day bike race in France. This is perhaps the first evidence that the nation may be tired of going around in circles and going no place.

More Bombers For The British

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Forty of America's great four-motor bombing airplanes, designed for long-range flying, are expected to be on their way to Britain before Christmas.

In line with President Roosevelt's new rule-of-thumb policy for splitting munitions production with the British, the bomber delivery will give the British half of the Boeing aircraft plant's output of 80 Boeing B-17C bombers by late December. Experts said the planes have range so great they easily could be flown across the Atlantic to England.

Reports persisted, meanwhile, of the release to Britain of one of the secret bomb-sights developed by American military experts who regard them as the world's most accurate. Lacking any official confirmation, these reports said the second and newer of the two sights held by the army and navy would not be released.

Release of the other, known as the Sperry bomb-sight, might take the form, it was said, of permitting the British to use existing sight units and to order new units from the manufacturer.

Serial Story

Goal To Go

By W. H. PEARS

YESTERDAY: Buck talks the team out of their strike, sends Bill to practice. Bill tries one of his father's plays and the scrub team clicks. Landis challenges him to teach the scrubs all he knows. That night Bullhead Peskin brings Dot Skelton to the drug store, bosses Bill around. Dot likes Bill. Droway Peters suggests Bill is overlooking a bet. Landis won't last, and if Bill is in solid with the Skeletons...

CHAPTER IV

BILL MENTOR, in football togs, moved slowly toward the practice field. Deep in thought, he was for once in his life deaf to the seductive pung-of toe against leather.

Ten days had passed since Droway dropped the hint about Dot Skelton, but it clung to his mind like a burr on a piece of wool.

"Wait up, Bill."

He started guiltily at the sound of Helen's voice. He felt somehow that even thinking of Dot made him disloyal to Helen. Besides, she had a darn queer habit of guessing what was on his mind.

Helen fell into step with him. "Am I poison, Bill?"

"Heck no, Helen," Bill said, a little gruffly. "I've been putting in overtime, so Old Man Peskin'll let me off for the dance."

"Oh, Bill, I'm so glad!" Helen's eyes glowed. "This will be the first time I've ever gone to dance with someone that I... well, kind of like."

"We'll have fun," Bill said, and changed the subject abruptly to football. "Well, we finally won a game Saturday."

"Westerburg!" Helen scoffed. "And just by a field goal. If that's the best we can do against a little weak team, what'll happen when we meet Clayton?"

"Slaughter," Bill said gloomily. "I'll bet Landis is fit to be tied."

LANDIS was. They could hear his voice as he stomped along the sidelines bellowing at the boys. Catching sight of Bill, he scowled. "Well, Mentor, still teaching the scrubs to be All-Americans?"

"No, sir, but we've got some new plays ready to roll. You said you'd like a chance to have the varsity stop them."

Bill spoke quietly, without challenge, but his words sent a rush of crimson to Landis' face. For the first time he appeared to realize that his taunt had been taken seriously, and that now it was too late to back out.

"I meant what I said, Mentor," he snapped. Then, turning to the varsity squad: "Get in there and smear this play wide open!"

In the huddle Bill said earnestly, "Let's make these good, fellows. We know the plays will work, but we've got to prove it to Coach. If we do, he may let the varsity use 'em. Let's go!"

Landis Orders Bill To Quit Football; Buck Gets an Offer

The play was simple, yet employed a brand of deception suitable to young teams. The ball came to a big scrub back. Bill cut behind him, faked a grab at the ball. Then, running together, the two sliced off tackle. Good work by the other faking back had made it appear that the play was going in another direction. Only the defensive halfback stayed on the play. Bill rolled blocked him as he dived for the ball carrier. Landis blew his whistle sharply.

SILENCE hung over the field a minute. The varsity stood in a sheepish group. To a man, the scrubs tried to hide the triumph that lighted their faces.

Bill Mentor was surprised. Buck's training told him that the play shouldn't have clicked so easily. He sensed that it wasn't the fault of the varsity boys, but of their defensive training.

Coach Landis strode across the field toward Bill. The tiny network of veins on his nose flamed. "Mentor," he said, "you're too big for your britches."

"But, Coach," Bill protested, "you wanted me to show the scrubs—"

"I don't want them learning circus plays," he raged. "You're—"

He checked himself, as if realizing that his anger carried him too far. "So long as I'm coach, Mentor, I'll run the show. You're a disrupting influence. I've let you practice with the squad because I felt sorry for you. I'm through being soft. Don't let me catch you around this field again."

Bill dug his cleats into the ground, bit down an angry retort. Buck had told the fellows to behave like soldiers. Now it was his turn to take orders and not whine.

BILL changed clothes slowly. He wrapped Buck's uniform in a big bundle. Where his heart should have been, there was a sick, empty feeling. No more football ever. In another year he'd be through school and looking for a steady job. Bill Mentor realized sharply just how much these sandwiched-in practice sessions meant to him.

That night, Bill tried to get the bundle in without letting Buck see it, but the older man's keen eyes noted the shape of the package.

"That looks suspiciously like a football uniform, Bill. Anything wrong?"

Lying to Buck was out of the question. Bill said dully, "Landis booted me off the field today."

"Why?"

Bill told him. Buck nodded, thumbed his pipe; but he uttered no condemnation of Landis. He said simply, "That's tough, fellow."

"Maybe he was right," Bill said. "I guess I did want to show off your plays, Buck."

Buck Mentor smiled. "Keep punching, Bill. If things go as I've planned, you've got five years of football ahead."

"Five years! Say—"

"Here, take a look at this, fellow."

ON the table Bill saw a movie camera and projector. "Buck, for Pete's sake, where did you get that?"

Avoiding Bill's gaze, Buck said, "A friend of mine left it here."

"A present?" Bill gasped.

"Not exactly. You've heard me mention Jim Kirk?"

"The fellow you said could drive a hole in a concrete wall?"

"That's Jim. He was my sidekick in college. Recently he heard about my accident and looked me up. He's a district sales manager for the company that makes these outfits."

"I still don't get it, Buck."

The older man fumbled with his pipe. "These machines are designed especially for coaches. Jim thinks my football background would make me a good bet to sell them."

"Nothing doing," Bill said. "You're not going to do anything like that. You know darn well what the doctor told you about being quiet. I'll keep things going until we can afford the operation."

Buck gripped his son's arm. "Sorry, Bill, but I've made up my mind. I'm through pampering myself. I'm going to make a living for us. My legs can wait. Don't think it's going to be easy. We'll be separated, and that's tough to take."

"Wait," Bill pleaded. "Something will turn up here. I know it will." Bill's mind flashed to an auburn-haired girl. "I—I've got a plan..."

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Wheat and corn prices were slightly lower through most of today's grain market session but they rallied just before the close and finished fractionally higher than yesterday.

They'll Be Visitors In Sedalia Saturday Afternoon

The Shriners will have the above "slaves" in their party when they come to Sedalia Saturday afternoon and evening, from Kansas City, to participate in a ceremonial at which fifty novices will become members of the organization. The Kansas City Shriners with all their equipment and regalia will arrive in Sedalia, by special train, about 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

was the number of plain clothes men.

A curious crowd was gathered in front of the chancellery.

Molotoff's day began with a conference with Goering who, observers assumed, gave him a comprehensive picture of both the military and economic situation in Germany.

From the fact that such industrial leaders as Dr. Gustave Krupp head of the Krupp Munitions Works, attended the dinner given Molotoff last night, observers adduced that the accent in the talks thus far has been on economics.

Foreign correspondents were afforded food for speculation when it was reported that the Turkish ambassador had visited the German foreign office today. Authorized sources would not comment.

The presence of the Turkish ambassador in the party which greeted Molotoff yesterday at the railroad station, along with Japanese, Chinese and Italian diplomats, also was the subject of some talk.

Non-Partisan Court Plans Win

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 13.—(P)—Polling plump majorities in Kansas City, St. Louis and St. Louis county, amendment No. 3 to provide for non-partisan selection of state court judges led by nearly 100,000 votes today with only 632 of 4,479 precincts to report.

With the populous areas in, there was little chance the proposition could be defeated. The count on No. 3 stood: Yes 488,759; no 368,826.

It was the only one of seven on the ballot in the November 5 election with a "yes" advantage, although proposition No. 4—which provides that the vote for governor and not that of supreme court

Where It Applies

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 13.—(P)—Amendment 3—apparent winner in last week's election—will change completely the method of selecting judges for the highest courts of Missouri.

Sponsors declared the amendment a plan to divorce the upper courts from politics. Although the amendment does not require it, the plan can be adopted for circuit courts if voters in individual circuits so desire.

On the face of the amendment it applies to the supreme court, the courts of appeal and the circuit courts in St. Louis and Jackson county. Judges of all these courts have been elected by party ballots in the past.

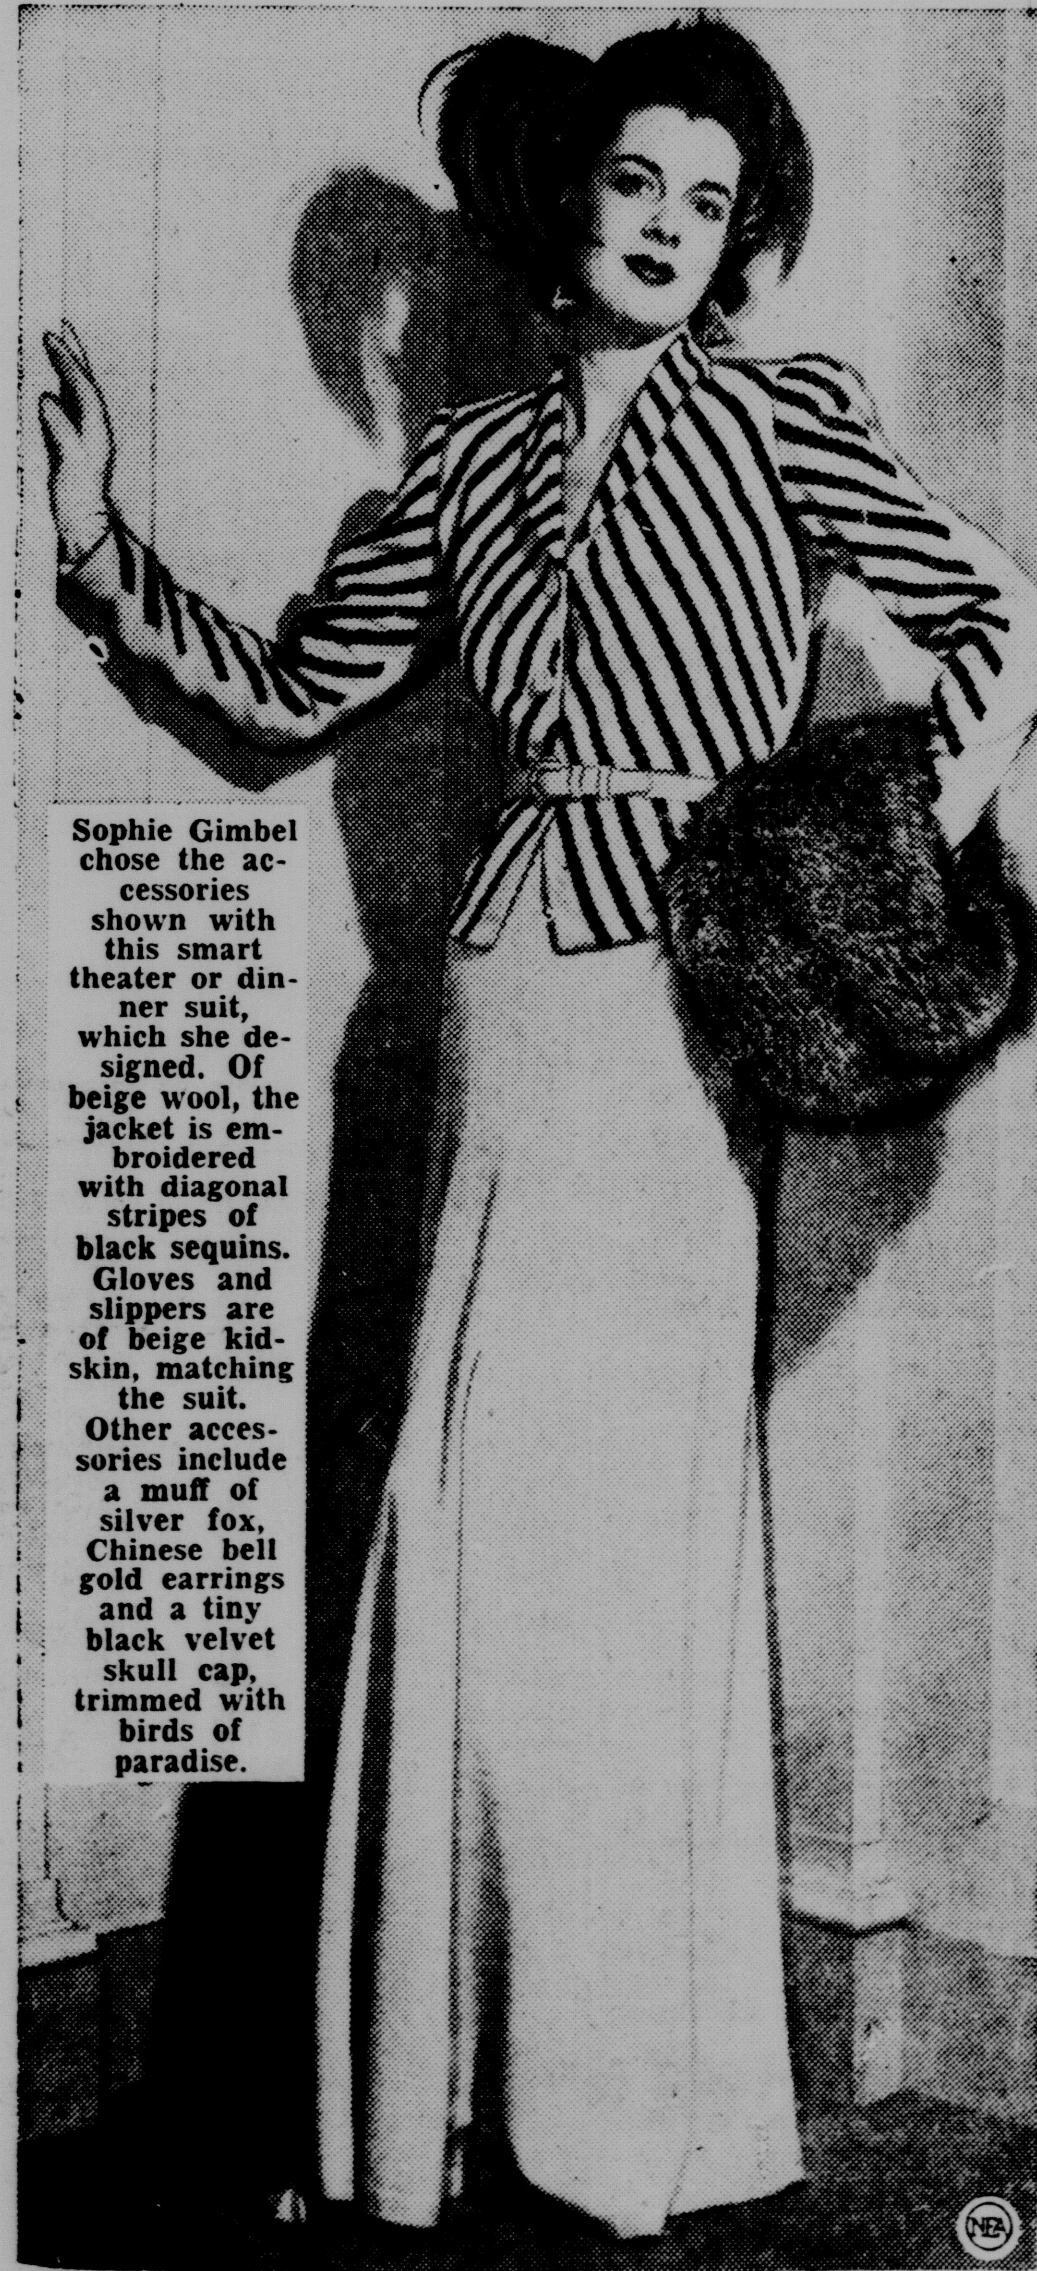

Under the new arrangement there would be no political campaigning for the judgeships and the voters would ballot on the courts on a non-partisan basis.

Oratory At S-C High School

Nine Smith-Cotton high school students entered the original oration contest, held at the school after classes Tuesday afternoon, under the supervision of Miss Ann Sawford, faculty member.

Robert McCullough won first, Dorothy Helen White, second; Ruth Wasson, third and Jack Kriessler, fourth, according to the decision of the judges, who were Miss Milla Swearingen, Miss Mary Louise Angle and Forrest Drake. Other students entered in the contest were: T. J. Cannon, Bob Riley, J. C. Franks, Cecil Swift and Jean Rice.

The winners will go to Columbia Saturday to participate in a district contest, competing with winners in Lexington, Marshall, Columbia and Fayette.

Gloves and slippers are of beige kid-skin, matching the suit. Other accessories include a muff of silver fox, Chinese bell gold earrings and a tiny black velvet skull cap, trimmed with birds of paradise.

Would Oppose Adjournment

Republicans In Favor Of Congress Staying On Job

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(P)—Speaker Rayburn said today that a vote would be taken Tuesday on adjournment of the present session of congress.

Democratic leaders have sent word to their members in both senate and house to be here on that day, Rayburn said. Republican leaders have announced they would attempt to defeat adjournment and hold this congress in session until the new one convenes in January, because of the international situation.

The house will agree to the adjournment resolution "if we can get the fellows back here," Rayburn said. He had declared previously that legislative work was finished for this session and there was no reason why congress should remain here.

Crisis Might Arise

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), asserting a crisis might arise at any time in domestic or foreign affairs, said he expected Republicans to be almost unanimous in opposing adjournment.

"The very fact that the President wants to get rid of us seems to me to be a reason why we should stay here," Taft asserted. The said he, for one, had every intention of continuing criticism of the administration's policies where he believed them wrong, but made it plain that he was not accepting in toto the five-point program offered by Willkie for the Republican party in a radio speech Monday night.

Willkie urged that the party seek recollection of federal expenditures except for preparedness and relief; oppose "nationalizing under the guise of defense of any American industry;" support pay-as-you-go taxes and readjustments that would "take the brakes off private enterprise;" and change what he called the government's "punitive attitude" toward business.

Taft said he thought Willkie stated the general philosophy of an opposition party "very well" but added that the party's definite position on specific issues would "require a great deal of consultation."

Divorce Is Sought

A divorce petition was filed in the circuit court today by Silas Lee against Letha Lee, in which the plaintiff alleged his wife fired three shots from a revolver at him. He also alleged other general indignities. The couple married in April, 1929.
